Carpet Care: Deep Cleaning

"Regularly cleaned carpet not only looks clean, but it keeps building occupants healthier and extends the life of the carpet."

A consistent maintenance program is critical to extending the life of your carpet. It helps sustain appearance levels and maintains a healthy indoor environment. You shouldn't wait until carpet looks dirty to schedule a cleaning.

Restorative or deep cleaning of carpet using extraction is generally scheduled two to three times a year. However, to stay on top of dirt build up — especially in high-traffic buildings — you should have an interim carpet-cleaning program, which will maintain carpet appearance until the next deep cleaning.

New carpet extraction equipment has made cleaning easier with systems that actually clean carpet quicker and reduce drying times significantly. Reduced moisture extraction systems such as CFR Cleaning Systems are growing in popularity for many reasons. The recycling filtration saves facilities gallons and gallons of water and greatly reduces tank dumps and refills. Even more important, less water means less chemicals and quicker drying times getting your facility up and running faster.

The more attention your carpet gets the better. Regularly cleaned carpet not only looks clean, but it keeps building occupants healthier and extends the life of the carpet.
